

定义题 generalizations

归纳

p.21

Generalizations are based on limited data and are then applied to a larger population.

1st. Cultural generalizations must be viewed as approximations, not as absolute representations.

2nd. When you do make generalizations, they should deal with the primary values and behaviors of a particular culture.

3rd. When employing generalizations, try to use those that can be supported by a variety of sources.

4th. Conclusions and statements about cultures should be qualified so that they appear not as absolutes but only as cautious generalizations.

定义题

objectivity

客观，客观性

p.22

Objectivity requires that you approach each new situation with an open mind and avoid being judgmental.

Objectivity promotes learning to interact and value distinct groups of people regardless of their culture, race, ethnicity, religion, country, or gender.

定义题

ethnocentrism

种族中心主义

p.22

Ethnocentrism is the habit of overemphasizing one's own culture as a template for assessing other cultures.

Ethnocentrism is “the belief that one's culture is superior to all other's”.

定义题

human communication

人际交往

p.34

Human communication is a dynamic process in which people attempt to share their thoughts with other people through the use of symbols in particular settings.

定义题

symbol 象征

p.36

Symbols are at the core of communication.

In human communication, a symbol is an expression that stands for or represents something else.

Although those symbols may be spontaneous and nonintentional, both involve your attaching meaning to a symbolic event generated by another person.

In many ways, this act of attaching meaning to symbols is at the core of human communication.

定义题

culture 文化

p.45

Culture is the programming of the mind.

Culture is the humanmade part of the environment.

Culture means that a collection of people has established not only a set of symbols but also rules for using those symbols.

定义题

world-view

世界观

p.63

World view is the way a people interpret reality and events including their images of themselves and how they relate to the world around them.

Inside view of the way things are colored, shaped, and arranged according to personal cultural preconceptions.

automatic unconscious

定义题

intercultural communication competence

跨文化交际能力

p.67

- (1) being motivated,
- (2) having a fund of knowledge to draw on,
- (3) possessing certain communication skills.

定义题

deep culture (deep structure)

深层文化

p.78

The key to how members of a culture view the world can be found in that culture's deep culture.

定义题

social organizations (institutions)

社会组织

p.79

Social organizations are the groups and affiliations that members of a culture turn to for lessons about the most important aspects of life.

They also coalesce the members into a cohesive unit.

family, church, or community

定义题 family 家庭

p.85

A family is any sexually expressive or parent-child or other kin relationship in which people —— usually related by ancestry, marriage, or adoption.

- (1) form an economic unit and care for any young,
- (2) consider their identity to be significantly attached to the group,
- (3) commit to maintaining that group over time.

定义题

individual/collective dimension 个人主义/集体主义

p.98

The individual-collective dimension is a culture's tendency to encourage people to be unique and independent or conforming and interdependent.

value the individual over the group.

For collective cultures the emphasis is on the needs and goals of the group of the group rather than the self.

people primarily view themselves as members of groups and collectives rather than as autonomous individuals.

定义题

perception 观点 看法

p.120

Perception is how we make sense of the world, how we construct reality.

定义题

belief 信仰

p.121

Beliefs are usually reflected in your actions and communication behaviors.

A belief is a concept or idea that an individual or group holds to be true.

Beliefs represent our subjective conviction in the truth of something —— with or without proof.

Shared beliefs can come to represent cultural norms, or values.

定义题

cultural values

文化价值观

p.122

What you consider desirable for yourself and for the society you live in is product of your values.

定义题

behaviors

行为

p.123

Behaviors are the outward manifestations of our internalized beliefs and values.

Culture also has a regulatory influence on behaviors.

Your behaviors are a reflection of your values, which are based on your beliefs.

定义题

cultural patterns (value orientations)

文化模式 (价值导向)

p.124

Cultural patterns (value orientations) is an umbrella term used to collectively describe those cultural values that characterize the dominant group within a culture.

integrated, dynamic, be contradictory

Cultural patterns are broad generalizations used to characterize a culture's value.

定义题

high-context/low-context

高语境/低语境

p.140

A HC communication or message is one in which most of the information is already in the person, while very little is in the coded, explicitly transmitted part of the message.

A LC communication is just the opposite; i.e., the mass of the information is vested in the explicit code.

High-context cultures rely on the context; low-context cultures rely on words.

定义题

context

语境

p.140

context — the information that surrounds an event

定义题

uncertainty avoidance (UAI)

不确定性规避

p.145

The extent to which the members of a culture feel threatened by ambiguous or unknown situations.

定义题

power distance (PDI)

权力差距

p.147

Power distance is concerned with how societies manage “the fact that people are unequal.”

The concept is defined as “the extent in which the less powerful members of institutions and organizations within a country expect and accept that power is distributed unequally.

定义题

masculinity/femininity (MAS)

男/女

p.148

Masculinity: men are supposed to be assertive, tough, and focused on material success, whereas women are supposed to be more modest, tender, and concerned with the quality of life.

Femininity: Both men and women are supposed to be modest, tender, and concerned with the quality of life.

定义题

face/facework

面子/面子工作

p.156

Facework consists of those actions you engage in to acquire or maintain face for yourself or give face to someone else.

定义题

social identities

社会身份

p.169

Social identities are represented by the many groups you belong to, such as racial, ethnic, occupational, age, hometown, and numerous others.

定义题

personal identity 个人身份

p.169

Personal identity is what sets you apart from other in-group members and marks you as special or unique.

定义题

gender 性别

p.172

Gender identity is “the meanings and interpretations we hold concerning our self-images and expected other-images of ‘femaleness’ and ‘maleness’.”

Gender identity refers to ways particular cultures and co-cultures differentiate masculine and feminine roles.

定义题

ethnic identity (ethnicity)

种族

p.174

Ethnic identity, or ethnicity is derived from a sense of shared heritage, history, traditions, values, similar behaviors, geographical area of origin, and in some instances, language.

定义题

national character

国民性

p.176

National character implies that members of a nation, despite ethnic, racial, religious, or individual differences among them, do resemble one another in certain fundamental matters of belief and conduct, more than they resemble members of other nations.

定义题

ascribed/avowed identities

归属/公开

p.183

Racial, ethnic, and sexual identities are assigned at birth and are considered ascribed. By contrast, your identity as a particular university student is avowed.

involuntarily or voluntarily

定义题 language

语言

p.197

Language may be thought of as an organized system of symbols, both verbal and nonverbal, used in a common and uniform way by persons who are able to manipulate these symbols to express their thoughts and feelings.

定义题

denotative/connotative meaning

外延意义/内涵意义

p.198

The denotative meaning refers to the literal, conventional meaning that most people in a culture have agreed is the meaning for the symbol.

Connotative meaning is the private, emotional meaning that the world evokes.

定义题

nonverbal communication

非语言交流

p.229

Nonverbal communication involves all those nonverbal stimuli in a communication setting that are generated by both the source and his or her use of the environment and that have potential message value for the source and/or receiver.

定义题

paralanguage

附语言

p.253

Paralanguage includes all oral cues in the stream of spoken utterances except the words themselves.

- (1) vocal qualities
- (2) vocal characteristics
- (3) vocal segregates

定义题 proxemics

人际距离

p.255

The interrelated observations and theories of man's use of space as a specialized elaboration of culture.

- (1) personal space
- (2) seating
- (3) furniture arrangement

定义题

monochronic /polychronic (M-/P-Time)

单时间/ 多时间

p.262

M-Time: this concept views time as linear, sequential, and segmented.

do only one thing at any one time value punctuality, product over process, and the judicious use of time

P-Time: human relationships, not tasks, are important.

collective and deal with life holistically

定义题

culture shock

文化冲击

p.277

Almost every sojourner entering a new cultural environment for a sustained period initially experiences some degree of culture shock.

People are usually more effective and comfortable with familiar situations than unfamiliar conditions.

定义题

acculturation

文化适应/文化移入/文化互渗

p.279

People commence a process of acculturation —— learning to become functional and comfortable in their new cultural setting.

定义题

stereotyping

刻板印象

p.285

Stereotyping is a complex form of categorization that mentally organizes your experiences with and guides your behavior toward a particular group of people.

A stereotype is a cognitive structure containing the perceiver's knowledge, beliefs, and expectancies about some human social groups.

定义题 prejudices 偏见

p.288

Prejudices are learned and fulfill a variety of functions for the people holding them.

Prejudices can provide an individual a sense of superiority and power.

定义题

racism 种族偏见

p.292

Racism represents a shameful stain on the course of history and unfortunately continues even today.

Racism remains evident in contemporary society.

定义题

power 权力

p.294

Power has played a significant role in relations among people, cultures, nations, and civilizations throughout history.

The fundamental concept in social science.

The ability to exert your will even in the face of opposition.

The ability to cause things to happen, to control what happens, and to prevent things you do not want to happen.